The Council of Europe

The Council of Europe has 47 member states¹, covering virtually the entire continent of Europe. It seeks to develop common democratic and legal principles based on the European Convention on Human Rights and other reference texts on the protection of individuals. Ever since it was founded in 1949, in the aftermath of the Second World War, the Council of Europe has symbolised reconciliation.

The Committee of Ministers is the Council of Europe's decision-making body. It comprises the Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the 47 member states, or their permanent diplomatic representatives in Strasbourg. It is both a governmental body, where national approaches to problems facing European society can be discussed on an equal footing, and a collective forum, where Europe-wide responses to such challenges are formulated. In collaboration with the Parliamentary Assembly, it is the guardian of the Council's fundamental values, and monitors member states' compliance with their undertakings.

Texts of Council of Europe Treaties

The texts of conventions and agreements concluded in the Council of Europe are numbered in chronological order. The year in brackets is that of the most recent edition. Missing numbers are those of amendments, protocols, etc., which are not published separately, being included in the convention or agreement to which they apply. When ordering, please mention the number of the convention.

The Parliamentary Assembly is the Council of Europe's deliberative body. Its 636 members (318 representatives and 318 substitutes) are drawn from the 47 national parliaments.

The agenda for each session of the Assembly features debates on European and world events as well as on main issues to be addressed by our societies today. Proposals concerning accession by new member states are debated and voted on in the Assembly.

The texts adopted by the Assembly provide guidelines for the Committee of Ministers, national governments, parliaments and political parties. The Assembly has also initiated many international treaties, known as "European conventions".

The Parliamentary Assembly's 318 members and their 318 substitutes are elected or appointed by national parliaments from among their own members. Each country has between 2 and 18 representatives depending on the size of its population. All the main national political parties should be represented. Added to those members are the 18 special guests and 18 observers.

The Council of Europe's Parliamentary Assembly was the first European assembly to be created in the history of our continent. With delegations from 47 national parliaments, it is the most widely-based European assembly.

The Parliamentary Assembly - Practice and Procedure (11th edition) (2013)

ISBN 978-92-871-7545-8 € 39 / US$ 78

The tenth edition of the book entitled Procedure and practice of the Assembly was published in 2009. Since then, significant political changes in Europe have also had an impact on the functioning of the Parliamentary Assembly. This new edition emphasises the practical way in which the Assembly operates and describes its political and institutional context. It will be of use both to the members of the Assembly and a wider audience: members and staff of national parliaments, representatives of civil society, and all those who wish to know more about the driving force of the Council of Europe.

The 636 parliamentarians making up the Assembly come from the national parliaments of the 47 Council of Europe member states. They meet four times a year to discuss current affairs and ask European governments to take initiatives and report back. These parliamentarians speak on behalf of the 800 million Europeans who elected them. They are the democratic conscience of Europe.

International Parliaments (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6450-6 € 19 / US$ 38

Despite the curiosity it arouses in political circles, international parliamentarism has never yet been dealt with by academic researchers, probably because it is such a new field. In this in-depth appraisal, the parliamentarian and historian, Luis Maria de Puig, has taken the opportunity to explore from the inside the era of globalisation and the institutional frameworks to which it has given rise. His goal is to shed light on how the geostrategic context is changing as well as outlining potential future developments.

In the author's view the key question about these new parliamentary structures is what their future function will be in a political process which is no longer restricted to the national sphere but now takes place on a global scale.

The Congress of Local and Regional Authorities of the Council of Europe is a consultative body of the Council of Europe established to promote effective local and regional government structures in all Council of Europe member states, especially in the new democracies.

The Congress has two chambers: the Chamber of Local Authorities and the Chamber of Regions. The two-chamber assembly comprises 318 titular members and 318 substitute members, all elected, representing over 200000 regional and local authorities in the Council's 47 member states. The chambers appoint working groups for specific issues, including the verification of the situation of local and regional democracy in member states, regionalisation, sustainable development, local finance, the training of local and regional elected representatives and officials, citizens' rights and duties, urban security, housing, unemployment, culture, education, media, etc.

Revised European Charter on the Participation of Young People in Local and Regional Life (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-7523-6 € 10 / US$ 20

Young people have the right to be involved in democratic structures and processes, have their voice heard and make decisions on issues that impact on them and their lives. Their diversity of experience, ideas and skills are unique resources for society.

The Revised Charter contains principles, best practices and guidelines to enhance youth participation at local/regional levels. It is not a legally binding instrument but member states have a moral responsibility to implement it.

European Charter of Local Self-Government and Additional Protocol (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6943-3 € 10 / US$ 20

The recognition of local democracy by the Council of Europe member states led to the elaboration of the European Charter of Local Self-Government - the first international binding treaty that guarantees the rights of communities and their elected authorities, and now benchmark international treaty in this area.

On 16 November 2009, an Additional Protocol was adopted to supplement the text of the European Charter of Local Self-Government. It relates to the right to participate in local authorities' affairs.

European Code of conduct for the political integrity of local and regional elected representatives (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6856-6 € 15 / US$ 30

The purpose of this code is to consolidate the relationship between citizens and local and regional policy-makers by setting out, at European level, ethical principles approved by the delegates of Europe's local and regional elected representatives. The Congress invites national governments and national associations of local and regional authorities of the member states to detail the standards and principles established by the code in their national legislation and in ethical codes.

Clearly, "God is changing in Europe": religious faiths and beliefs are increasingly making their presence felt in the public arena, at all levels. Because religions are more and more often behind the forging and assertion of multiple identities, the authorities have a duty to take the utmost account of them when establishing democratic rules and arrangements for «living together». Local authorities are ideally placed to lead this work, which requires creativity, imagination, a willingness to engage in dialogue and the opening of meeting places.

Children's rights and family law

Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7572-4

€ 8 / US$ 16

This convention aims to prevent the sexual exploitation and sexual abuse of children, protect child victims of sexual offences and prosecute perpetrators. With an emphasis on respecting the rights of children and keeping their best interests in the forefront, the convention covers preventive measures; criminal offences, including several entirely new offences, such as «child grooming»; protective measures and assistance to child victims and their families; «child-friendly» procedures for investigation and prosecution which are adapted to children's special needs; intervention programmes or measures for child sex offenders; recording and storing of data on convicted sex offenders; international co-operation and a monitoring mechanism.

Guidelines of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on child-friendly justice (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7274-7

€ 15 / US$ 30

The guidelines on child-friendly justice, and their explanatory memorandum, were adopted by the Council of Europe in 2010. Based on existing international and European standards, in particular the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child and the European Convention on Human Rights, the guidelines are designed to guarantee children's effective access to and adequate treatment in justice. They apply to all the circumstances in which children are likely, on any ground and in any capacity, to be in contact with the criminal, civil or administrative justice system. They recall and promote the principles of the best interests of the child, care and respect, participation, equal treatment and the rule of law. The guidelines address issues such as information, representation and participation rights, protection of privacy, safety, a multidisciplinary approach and training, safeguards at all stages of proceedings and deprivation of liberty.

Protecting children from sexual violence - A comprehensive approach (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6972-3

€ 25 / US$ 50

Protecting children from sexual violence - A comprehensive approach is a collection of highly readable expert papers for both child professionals and the general public. It is divided into five parts, presenting a European overview and covering the existing legal frameworks; abuse prevention and reporting; rehabilitation and social reintegration of victims; sexual violence on the Internet; and public and private partnerships against abuse. It also sheds light on the little-known problem of children who are sexually abusing other children.

Janusz Korczak: The Child's Right to Respect - Lectures on today's challenges (2009)

Korczak's message was about respect for children, respect for their inherent value as human beings but also for their capacity and competence. Though continuously practicing as a medical doctor and assisting in orphanages, he was also a writer. His essay «The Child's Right to Respect» in which he analyses the role of adults and the place of children in society is published in this volume. Korczak's vision about children's rights is still relevant.

«Raise your hand against smacking!» is a Council of Europe campaign launched in June 2008 to eliminate corporal punishment of children. This kit aims at facilitating campaign activities throughout Europe. It contains a mix of publications and examples of some of our promotional material.

European Rules for juvenile offenders subject to sanctions or measures (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6620-3

€ 36 / US$ 72

This book deals with the rules that are in force in Europe for juvenile offenders. The aim of the rules is to uphold the rights and safety of juvenile offenders subject to sanctions or measures and to promote their physical, mental and social well-being when subject to community sanctions or measures, or any form of deprivation of liberty.

It is based on Recommendation Rec(2008)11 of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on the European Rules for juvenile offenders subject to sanctions or measures, which was adopted on 5 November 2008.

International justice for children (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6534-3

€ 25 / US$ 50

This book discusses the principles of child-friendly justice at international level and examines monitoring mechanisms and current systems of admissibility, determining how easy or difficult it is for children to gain access to them. It also identifies the obstacles to be overcome and proposes concrete ways to remove them through specific recommendations to governments, international organisations and monitoring bodies.

Human Rights and Democracy

Standard-setting through monitoring? The role of Council of Europe expert bodies in the development of human rights (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7518-2

€ 23 / US$ 46

This book constitutes a rich source of information on the dialogue between the four committees and European states. It is addressed to practitioners, diplomats and decision makers at national level to deepen their understanding of the aims and functioning of Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms. Students and academics will gain a comprehensive insight into the legal bases, mandates and procedures of such mechanisms. Finally, it is hoped that the expert bodies themselves will gain much from the authors' analysis of present-day challenges for monitoring and the impact their implementation standards may have on the development of the European human rights order.

Manual on human rights and the environment (2nd edition) (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7319-5

€ 18 / US$ 36

Human rights and the environment have become increasingly interconnected. This updated manual seeks to contribute to a better understanding of this relationship by taking into account the new pertinent case law of the European Court of Human Rights. While the European Convention on Human Rights does not guarantee a specific right to a healthy and sound environment, the general standards deriving from it may nonetheless also apply to environmental matters. The European Court of Human Rights regularly examines complaints in which individuals argue that a breach of their Convention rights is the result of adverse environmental factors.

This manual also takes account of the relevant decisions of the European Committee of Social Rights which has interpreted the right to protection of health under the European Social Charter as including a right to a healthy environment.

Human rights and a changing media landscape (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7198-6

€ 15 / US$ 30

The phenomenon of social media presents us with a range of fresh challenges. Blogs, video and social networking sites have become a key forum for political debate and organisation – so much so that they have provoked counter-responses from some repressive states.

The purpose of this publication is to contribute to a more thorough discussion on media developments and their impact on human rights in a constantly changing media landscape. Eight experts were invited to contribute their personal assessments of trends and problems. They have not shied away from addressing controversial issues or providing far-reaching suggestions. Together their texts indicate that there is a need for stronger protection of media freedom and freedom of expression in Europe today. These are clearly topics of paramount importance which demand serious public debate.

Media revolution in Europe: ahead of the curve (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6939-6

€ 49 / US$ 98

The «rags to riches» story of Karol Jakubowicz's involvement in the work of the Council of Europe took him from the role of an awestruck newcomer from Poland in 1990 to that of the Chairman of the Steering Committee on the Media and New Communication Services (2005-06). Along the way, he was elected, delegated by the Steering Committee, and invited by the Council of Europe Secretariat to serve in a number of other capacities. In all of them, he contributed a wide variety of papers, reports and studies to assist the steering committee and other bodies in collecting information and formulating ideas in the general field of freedom of expression, creation of free and democratic media systems (including the issue of public service media), regulation of transfrontier television, the adjustment of Council of Europe human rights standards to the conditions of the information society, and the development of broadcasting legislation in Council of Europe member states.

The present collection of these papers and reports is published in the conviction that they retain their value and relevance. It provides the additional benefit of offering a glimpse of the work preceding the formulation of Committee of Ministers recommendations and declarations, as well as resolutions of the Council of Europe Parliamentary Assembly.

Discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in Europe (2nd edition) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-7257-0

€ 9 / US$ 18

Many people in Europe are stigmatised because of their sexual orientation or gender identity and cannot fully enjoy their universal human rights. Some of them are victims of violence, others have fled to Europe from countries where they risk being persecuted. Organisations representing lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) persons have been denied registration or banned from organising peaceful meetings in some states in Europe. Too few politicians have taken a firm stand against homophobic and transphobic expressions, discrimination and violence.

This report presents the results of the largest socio-legal study ever carried out on discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in the 47 member states of the Council of Europe. Six thematic chapters give a broad overview of the human rights situation of LGBT persons and recommendations are provided for developing and implementing effective measures to address discrimination.

Migrants and fighting discrimination in Europe (White Paper Series - Volume 2) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6937-2

€ 15 / US$ 30

This book analyses the issue of migration in Europe in its multiple dimensions, claiming that appropriate responses to the changing ways in which we live together will emerge only through the development of a new model of integration, based on the principle of equal dignity for each individual.

Combating discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation or gender identity - Council of Europe standards (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6989-1

€ 19 / US$ 38

This publication provides an accessible and comprehensive compilation of the standards adopted by the Council of Europe. It should serve as a reference for the governments, international institutions, NGOs, media professionals and to all those who are - or should be - professionally or otherwise involved or interested in protecting and promoting the human rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender persons.

The Council of Europe and human rights - An introduction to the European Convention on Human Rights (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6836-8

€ 6 / US$ 12

Just what are your human rights, and how does the Council of Europe protect them? This small book tells the story simply and clearly, making a complicated issue straightforward. It offers examples illustrating each right in the European Convention on Human Rights, and short explanations placing the European Court of Human Rights in the wider context of other Council of Europe activities that also promote the same ideals. As informed citizens of Europe, we all need to be aware of human rights and of the importance of maintaining and promoting them. Europe has a good story to tell about human rights and this book tells it.

Andrei Sakharov and Human Rights (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6947-1

€ 19 / US$ 38

Andrei Sakharov, Nobel Peace Prize winner and physicist, was a leading human rights activist in the Soviet Union, and one of the world's great thinkers. His principled messages contributed to the non-violent, revolutionary changes of 1989, and continue to influence work in favour of justice and human rights today.

This book, containing selected human rights texts, is published as part of a series of initiatives highlighting how acutely relevant his ideas remain in our time.

Media matters in the cultural contradictions of the «information society» - Towards a human rights-based governance (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6834-4

€ 53 / US$ 106

Is an online identity protected by freedom of expression or is it a form of publicity subject to trademark law? Is online privacy a commercial service or a public right? What are the limits of consent when dealing with privacy as a service? What are «free», «open», or «public» services on the Internet and how can citizens use them effectively? What policy initiatives can ensure that the digital networks deliver the goods, spectacles and services for our everyday activities that improve our quality of life?

Human rights in Europe: no grounds for complacency (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6916-7

€ 19 / US$ 38

Political rhetoric on human rights in Europe is different from daily reality. Almost every politician is on record as favouring the protection of freedom and justice. Standards on human rights have been agreed at European and international level; many have been integrated into national law; but they are not consistently enforced.

It is this implementation gap that this book seeks to address. It is built on a compilation of separate «viewpoints» or articles which Thomas Hammarberg has written, and later updated, since beginning his mandate as Council of Europe Commissioner for Human Rights in April 2006. He has now visited almost all of the 47 member states of the Council of Europe. On each visit he has met victims of violations of human rights and their families, leading politicians, prosecutors, judges, ombudsmen, religious leaders, journalists and civil society representatives as well as inmates of prisons and other institutions, law enforcement personnel and others.

This work addresses these burning issues - and many more - that preoccupy decision makers, researchers and activists at all levels of society. It covers the issues of dignity, ethics, identity, privacy, cultural diversity, public service, gate-keeping and education in an encompassing human rights-based governance framework. Considering the perils and promises of each issue, the authors make constructive recommendations, insisting on the relation between local and global governance, the public value of media and digital networks and the benefits of multi-stakeholder partnerships.

The Council of Europe - Pioneer and guarantor for human rights and democracy (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6716-3

€ 25 / US$ 50

What has been the role of the Council of Europe in the historic process of integrating eastern European states into the «Euro-transatlantic structures»? What has been the impact of the European Court of Human Rights, over the 50 years of its existence, on the protection of human rights in Europe? What effect have the on-site inspections of the European Committee for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CPT) had over the last 20 years?

These questions and others are addressed in this work, which aims to increase public awareness on the Council of Europe's contribution to the dynamic development of human rights and democracy.

Discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in Europe (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6989-1

€ 19 / US$ 38

This report presents the results of the largest socio-legal study ever carried out on discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and gender identity in the 47 member states of the Council of Europe. Six thematic chapters give a broad overview of the human rights situation of LGBT persons and recommendations are provided for developing and implementing effective measures to address discrimination.

The report is intended as a tool for dialogue with authorities and other stakeholders. It constitutes a baseline study for further action in both legislative and policy fields to ensure that all LGBT people can effectively exercise their human rights.

Intercultural Dialogue in the Framework of European Human Rights Protection (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6750-7

€ 19 / US$ 38

This report analyses the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights in terms of the promotion of cultural diversity. The Court's views on the governance principles and preconditions of intercultural dialogue - and particularly the case law on freedom of thought, conscience and religion, freedom of expression and freedom of association and assembly - provide guidelines for politicians, academics and practitioners alike.

White Paper on Intercultural Dialogue "Living together as equals in dignity" (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6696-8

€ 15 / US$ 30

Managing Europe's increasing cultural diversity – rooted in the history of our continent and enhanced by globalisation – in a democratic manner has become a priority in recent years. The White Paper on Intercultural Dialogue responds to an increasing demand to clarify how intercultural dialogue can enhance diversity while sustaining social cohesion.

It emphatically argues in the name of the governments of the 47 member states of the Council of Europe that our common future depends on our ability to safeguard and develop human rights, as enshrined in the European Convention on Human Rights, democracy and the rule of law, and to promote mutual understanding and respect. It concludes that the intercultural approach offers a forward-looking model for the management of cultural diversity.

Racism on the Internet (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6634-0

€ 29 / US$ 58

Racism was a pressing social problem long before the emergence of the digital age. The advancement of digital communication technologies such as the Internet has, however, added a new dimension to this problem. The use of the Internet as an instrument for the widespread dissemination of racist content is assessed in detail by the author.

The problem of racist content on the Internet has naturally prompted vigorous responses from a variety of agents, including governments, supranational and international organisations and from the private sector. This book also provides a detailed critical overview of these regulatory and non-regulatory initiatives.

The European Commission against Racism and Intolerance (ECRI) - Its first 15 years (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6630-2

€ 35 / US$ 70

This book provides a detailed assessment of the first 15 years of the European Commission against Racism and Intolerance, and examines how it has developed and fulfilled its mandate.

It begins by looking at ECRI's foundational years, which were pivotal to its future character, approach, working methods and activities. It then describes and closely examines the evolution of the three main prongs of ECRI's work programme – country-by-country work, general themes and relations with civil society. Through this assessment, the author reveals the detailed, far-reaching and progressive body of jurisprudence that ECRI has produced – constituting a useful road map for actors seeking to address problems of racism and discrimination. The work also examines ECRI's contribution to legal standards to protect individuals against racism and discrimination and its impact on the case law of the European Court of Human Rights. It concludes with a discussion of ECRI's opinion on three important contemporary issues in European anti-racism work: positive measures, racist expression and the current racist climate.

Reforming the European Convention on Human Rights:

A work in progress (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6604-3

€ 69 / US$ 138

The present volume contains a record of the work carried out since the European ministerial conference on human rights, meeting in Rome on the 50th anniversary of the Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms. Since January 2001, the intergovernmental co-operation activities of the Steering Committee for Human Rights (CDDH) of the Council of Europe have concentrated on developing normative instruments, of which the most important has been Protocol No. 14 to the Convention.

Manual on the wearing of religious symbols in public areas (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6616-6

€ 25 / US$ 50

This manual explores how the European Convention on Human Rights relates to the freedom of thought, conscience and religion. It identifies the key concepts which can be found in the jurisprudence of the European Court of Human Rights and examines the role and responsibilities of both state and citizen.

The central issue addressed is the wearing of religious symbols in public areas. For this purpose, the author first looks at a number of fundamental topics, including the 'visibility' of religions and beliefs in the public sphere, and the notion of 'wearing religious symbols'.

The essential questions policy makers need to ask when addressing issues concerning the wearing of religious symbols are then listed. Finally, the manual seeks to apply these principles and approaches to a number of key areas such as state employment, schools and universities, the private sector and the criminal justice system.

Manual on hate speech (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6614-2

€ 19 / US$ 38

The right to freedom of expression entails duties and responsibilities and is subject to certain limits, provided for in Article 10.2 of the European Convention on Human Rights, which are concerned, among other things, with protecting the rights of others. Identifying what constitutes "hate speech" is especially difficult because this type of speech does not necessarily involve the expression of hatred or feelings.

On the basis of all the applicable texts on freedom of expression and the case-law of the European Court of Human Rights and other bodies, the author identifies certain parameters that make it possible to distinguish expressions which, although sometimes insulting, are fully protected by the right to freedom of expression from those which do not enjoy that protection.

Legal instruments for combating racism on the Internet (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6540-4

€ 25 / US$ 50

Various national and international legal instruments punish hate speech. However, the specific nature of the Internet calls for the adoption of new strategies to combat hate speech promoting racism and violence, which is widely and swiftly disseminated on the web.

Efforts to harmonise national legislation - including the Additional Protocol to the Council of Europe Convention on Cybercrime - have come up against a series of difficulties. One of these is the fact that there is no universally accepted definition of the illegal nature of racist speech, which can be protected by the right to freedom of expression.

This book discusses the problems faced and solutions introduced by the states and by European and international organisations and civil society.

Minorities

Developments in mediation, current challenges and the role of ROMED (2013)
ISBN 978-92-871-7374-4 € 12 / US$ 24

This work sets out to contextualise the initiatives taken, highlight their utility and evaluate them. It is intended to provide guidance for the programme leaders, enable active participants - trainers, mediators, employers and others - to see their efforts as part of an overall scheme, help policy makers to take the right decisions and describe and explain the operation to a broader audience.

The programme's activities concerning Roma are a model for positive action. They make an effective contribution to European co-operation, action to combat discrimination and marginalisation and the search for ways to improve difficult situations. ROMED therefore helps to fuel the development of intercultural policies capable of managing present-day societies, of which diversity and pluralism are the hallmarks.

Shaping language rights – Commentary on the European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages in light of the Committee of Experts' evaluation (Regional or Minority Languages, No. 9) (2012)
ISBN 978-92-871-7216-7 € 41 / US$ 82

The European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages protects and promotes traditionally used regional or minority languages in Europe.

This volume provides an in-depth analysis of the provisions of the Charter in light of the monitoring work done by the Committee of Experts since 2001. An article-by-article commentary by legal experts examines the meaning and implications of the provisions of the Charter and studies best practice and shortcomings in its implementation by states parties.

Human Rights of Roma and Travellers in Europe (2012)
ISBN 978-92-871-7200-6 € 15 / US$ 30

In many European countries, the Roma and Traveller populations are still denied basic human rights and suffer blatant racism. They remain far behind others in terms of educational achievement, employment, housing and health standards, and they have virtually no political representation.

Anti-Gypsyism continues to be widespread and is compounded by a striking lack of knowledge among the general population about the history of repression of Roma in Europe. In times of economic crisis, the tendency to direct frustration against scapegoats increases - and Roma and Travellers appear to be easy targets.

This report presents the first overview of the human rights situation of Roma and Travellers, covering all 47 member states of the Council of Europe..

Council of Europe and Roma: 40 years of action (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6945-7 € 25 / US$ 50

This publication provides an overview of the Council of Europe's texts and activities in connection with the Roma over the last forty years, and puts them in their historical context.

It is intended to be a source of knowledge and ideas and a reference and study tool. It contains information which is frequently unknown, fragmented or difficult to obtain. It will be useful both for political decision-makers and administrators at European, national and local level and for those working for non-governmental organisations.

Issues raised in relation to the Roma community can inform and inspire institutional processes. Today, 10 to 12 million European citizens are members of the Roma community, making the Roma question one of the main priorities of the 21st century and presenting Europe with one of its major challenges for the future.

Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities - Collected Texts (6th edition) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6725-5 € 13 / US$ 26

The protection of national minorities is a core issue for the Council of Europe, and one of the major achievements in this field is the Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities. The entry into force of the Framework Convention on 1 February 1998 was indeed an event of universal stature, for it is the first ever legally binding multilateral instrument devoted to the protection of national minorities in general. Its importance is widely acknowledged, and the number of ratifications has grown rapidly.

The aim of this collection is to provide all those interested in the protection of national minorities with a user-friendly compilation of the basic texts concerning the Framework Convention.

National minorities: Breath of diversity, breath of Europe (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6607-4 € 23 / US$ 46

This series of photos was taken in Vojvodina, a Serbian multiethnic region. It brings us closer to the people we refer to under the name of "national minorities" and it presents us with the reflection minorities themselves have on issues that have been codified in the Council of Europe's Framework Convention for the Protection of National Minorities. These are issues of identity, equality, education, participation, culture and media. They also evoke the concept of "living together".

Freedom of Expression - Essays in honour of Nicolas Bratza, President of the European Court of Human Rights (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7424-6

€ 55 / US$ 65

Freedom of expression is one of the cornerstones of all democratic systems. We rely on journalists to report accurately the controversies of the day and protect their right not to reveal sources. They also enjoy a broad right of fair comment. But we expect them to be responsible in their factual reporting, to check their sources and to have regard to the need to observe some degree of restraint when reporting or commenting on matters that affect the rights of others. But is it legitimate to interfere with reporting that is in the public interest and how can the law promote responsible journalism?

This collection of essays on freedom of expression contains contributions by distinguished judges and lawyers from many varied backgrounds that explore these themes with a critical eye. The book seeks to honour Sir Nicolas Bratza, President of the European Court of Human Rights, for his outstanding contribution, as a jurist and leading judicial figure, to the protection of human rights in Europe.

Bringing a case to the European Court of Human Rights - A practical guide on admissibility criteria (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7376-8

€ 13 / US$ 19

The 2010 Interlaken Conference on the reform of the Court called upon the "States Parties and the Court to ensure that comprehensive and objective information is provided to potential applicants on the Convention and the Court's case-law, in particular on the application procedures and admissibility criteria".

The Court's first response to this call was to prepare this practical guide on admissibility criteria. The guide seeks to reduce the number of obviously inadmissible cases by enabling legal practitioners to properly advise their clients on their chances of bringing an admissible application. This second edition covers case-law up to the end of March 2011.

Counter-terrorism and human rights in the case law of the European Court of Human Rights (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7197-9

€ 39 / US$ 78

Terrorism has become one of the major threats facing both states and the international community, in particular after the terrorist attacks in the United States, Madrid and London, which revealed a whole new scale and dimension of the phenomenon. An effective response is absolutely necessary; this response, however, cannot undermine democracy, human rights, the rule of law or the supreme values inherent to these principles. There is no universally agreed definition of «terrorism», nor is there an international Jurisdiction before which the perpetrators of terrorist crimes can be brought to account.

European Convention on Human Rights (as amended by Protocols Nos. 11 and 14) - Set of 5 books (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6929-7 € 5 / US$ 10

The European Convention on Human Rights, an international treaty drawn up within the Council of Europe, was opened for signature in Rome in 1950. On 1 June 2010 it was amended by Protocol No. 14, whose aim is to guarantee the long-term efficiency of the Court by optimising the filtering and processing of applications.

The European Court of Human Rights - Facts and figures (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6927-3

€ 19 / US$ 38

The importance of the European Court of Human Rights in the European judicial area and its influence beyond Europe's borders are indisputable. For over fifty years the Court's rulings have resulted in numerous changes to legislation and have helped strengthen the rule of law in the countries of wider Europe.

This publication presents the Court's activities through country factsheets but also using a thematic approach based on the articles of the European Convention on Human Rights.

The Council of Europe and human rights - An introduction to the European Convention on Human Rights (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6836-8

€ 6 / US$ 12

Just what are your human rights, and how does the Council of Europe protect them? This small book tells the story simply and clearly, making a complicated issue straightforward. It offers examples illustrating each right in the European Convention on Human Rights, and short explanations placing the European Court of Human Rights in the wider context of other Council of Europe activities that also promote the same ideals. As informed citizens of Europe, we all need to be aware of human rights and of the importance of maintaining and promoting them. Europe has a good story to tell about human rights and this book tells it.

Asylum and the European Convention on Human Rights (No. 9) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6819-1

€ 19 / US$ 29

This revised edition considers the substantial body of case law of the European Court of Human Rights which has examined the compatibility of the Convention with measures taken by states in relation to all aspects of the asylum process. It also observes the role of subsidiary protection offered by the Strasbourg organs in protecting those at risk of prohibited treatment. In addition, the study considers the increasingly relevant provisions of EU law developments in the field, as well as measures taken in the context of terrorist threats – both of which have had a significant impact on the practical circumstances and law on refugees and asylum seekers.

The prohibition of discrimination under the European Convention on Human Rights (No. 22) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6817-7

€ 13 / US$ 20

This study proposes an insight into the case law of the European Court of Human Rights on discrimination with respect both to the main principles which guide its implementation and to the specific solutions which the Court has adopted in relation to discrimination.

Other questions examined include the scope of the prohibition of discrimination (to what does it apply?), the question of the content of such a prohibition (what precise obligations does it imply?), and last, the question of a judicial review (how does the Court assess compliance with it?).

The execution of judgments of European Court of Human Rights (No. 19, 2nd edition) (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6373-8

€ 13 / US$ 20

This study examines individual and general measures taken by states in accordance with the Court's judgments and with the supervisory proceedings of the Committee of Ministers.

Social security as a human right - The protection afforded by the European Convention on Human Rights (No. 23) (2007)

ISBN 978-92-871-6261-8

€ 10 / US$ 15

There is no mention in the European Convention on Human Rights of rights in the field of social security. Nevertheless, the Convention does protect certain of these rights which come into its area of application and this study sets out to explain how.

It also examines recent developments in the relevant case-law of the European Court of Human Rights which, as well as affording procedural guarantees, has widened and strengthened the material protection of specific rights.

Armed forces and security services: what democratic controls? (2009)
ISBN 978-92-871-6536-7 € 35 / US$ 70

Faced with the growing threats of terrorism and international organised crime, European societies are feeling an increasing need for both domestic and external security.

Government action to combat these threats must be lawful – and also legitimate – and be conducted with due respect for human rights, democracy and the rule of law, which are fundamental Council of Europe principles. The question arises as to who is going to exercise democratic oversight in this area. What are the roles of parliaments, the executive, the judiciary and civil society? Do supervisory bodies exist at supranational level?

This book presents the various players and their duties in the security field and confirms the need to strike a balance between a democratic conception of fundamental freedoms and security safeguards, on the basis of reports by the Council of Europe Parliamentary Assembly and the European Commission for Democracy through Law.

CIA above the law? Secret detentions and unlawful inter-state transfers of detainees in Europe (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6419-3 € 23 / US$ 46

Has Europe become “a happy hunting ground” for foreign security services? Is it acceptable, in the name of common security and the fight against terrorism, for citizens to be kidnapped, transferred and arbitrarily detained in secret prisons, and then tortured, on the mere suspicion or terrorism and in defiance of international law?

Two investigations have revealed the global “spider’s web” spun by the CIA. The so-called “extraordinary renditions” programme has resulted in numerous serious human rights violations.

Furthermore, the European Commission for Democracy through Law has included its expert legal opinion on general international legal principles and the responsibility that Council of Europe member states would incur if they, either deliberately or by negligence, failed to meet their obligations.

This book, with its revealing eye-witness accounts, gives credence to the Council of Europe’s position that if measures to combat terrorism are to be effective in the long term, they must respect human rights and the rule of law.

Guantánamo: violation of human rights and international law? (2007)
ISBN 978-92-871-6294-6 € 13 / US$ 20

What are the rights of the prisoners held by the United States at the base in Guantánamo Bay? Is their imprisonment lawful? Should we be thinking about strengthening the Geneva Conventions and changing international law?

The Parliamentary Assembly, and hence the 47 member states of the Council of Europe, has spoken with one voice, condemning this flagrant violation of human rights and demanding the closure of the Guantánamo detention centre.

This book contains all the Assembly’s arguments, along with the study by the European Commission for Democracy through Law, which brings all its legal expertise to bear in considering whether the detention of people by the United States in Guantánamo Bay is lawful and if there is a need for a change in international law.

Europeans and their Rights

Freedom of expression (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6464-3
€ 29 / US$ 58

The author compares and analyses the protection of and limits on the right to freedom of expression in the case law of European constitutional courts and the European Court of Human Rights, drawing on practical examples, to see whether a common European approach exists in this area.

Child rights in Europe (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6269-4 € 17 / US$ 26

This volume analyses the effectiveness of the judicial protection of children’s rights within one regional organisation, the Council of Europe. The issue of children’s protection is of increasing importance in Europe and the courts have therefore become one of the means for transforming social values and influencing traditional conduct towards children.

Freedom of religion (2007)

ISBN 978-92-871-6201-4 € 17 / US$ 26

Today, the fundamental right to freedom of thought, conscience and religion is still sometimes restricted and meets with hostility and intolerance. Using concrete examples, the author compares and analyses the protection of the right to freedom of religion in the case-law of European constitutional courts and of the European Court of Human Rights, in order to establish whether there is such a thing as general European law in this sphere.

The right to life (2006)

ISBN 978-92-871-5867-3 € 13 / US$ 20

This comparative analysis of the case law of Europe’s constitutional courts and the Council of Europe’s European Court of Human Rights examines the nature and scope of the right to life in order to determine whether there is a common legal approach to the question in Europe.

International law

European judicial systems - Edition 2012 (2010 data). Efficiency and quality of justice (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7559-5 € 49 / US$ 98

The new Edition of the report of the European Commission for the Efficiency of Justice (CEPEJ), which evaluates the functioning of the judicial systems in 46 Council of Europe’s member states, remains in line with the process carried out since 2002. Relying on a methodology which has already proven itself in order to collect and process a wide number of quantitative and qualitative judicial data, this unique study has been conceived above all as a tool for public policy aimed at improving the efficiency and the quality of justice. To have the knowledge in order to be able to understand, analyse and reform, such is the objective of the CEPEJ which has prepared this report, intended for policy makers, legal practitioners, researchers as well as for those who are interested in the functioning of justice in Europe.

Judicial review - A comparative analysis inside the European legal system (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6723-1

€ 39 / US$ 78

The traditional state model, based on a domestic approach to rule of law, is currently evolving towards a new one, where international factors and relations play a prominent role. This trend is also characterised by the pre-eminence of executive powers, along with a weakening of parliamentary balances and judicial controls.

This work seeks to answer two essential questions concerning the rule of law: how can citizens challenge public decisions affecting them, and what kinds of public decisions can be judicially controlled. Two groups of legal regulations are considered in this analysis: the so-called European legal tradition and the more recent body of European Union law.

Democracy and human rights for Europe - The Council of Europe's contribution (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6667-8

€ 49 / US$ 98

This book looks at the political role of the Council of Europe, which is now not only a forum for democracy and a gage of stability, the home of human rights and the forum of cultural diversity, but also the crucible of Europe and the future for politics. The author examines all that is specific to the Council of Europe within the European architecture, particularly vis-à-vis the European Union. This book is essential reading for anyone wishing to study the Strasbourg-based Council of Europe, understand how it operates and find out about the contribution that it makes.

ISBN 978-92-871-7069-9

€ 39 / 78 US$

Anti-money laundering and countering the financing of terrorism (AML/CFT) continues to be a dynamic subject area. Dirty money has again been revised and expanded to keep pace with international developments over recent years, and this is the fourth edition.

Since the third edition, all countries in the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and MONEYVAL, the Council of Europe's primary AML/CFT monitoring arm, have been subject to detailed evaluation under the 2003 FATF recommendations. This edition explains how the interdependent network of global assessment bodies works to identify countries which pose threats to the global financial system. The European Union's third directive has been brought into force since the last edition and its provisions are fully analysed. This edition also explains how the most recent Council of Europe treaty in this area, the Warsaw convention, which came into force in 2008, can assist states to achieve more effective money laundering investigations and prosecutions, as well as deterrent confiscation orders.

Constitutional law

The European Commission for Democracy through Law (the "Venice Commission") was established in the aftermath of the fall of the Berlin Wall. It is an instrument for constitutional engineering in emergency situations as well as in the transition to democracy. It plays an essential role in the adoption of constitutional texts that comply with the standards of the European constitutional heritage in central and eastern Europe (constitutions, laws on constitutional courts, laws on national minorities, electoral laws and other laws that touch on democratic institutions). The European constitutional heritage is spread not only by the opinions specific to a country, but also through the Bulletin on Constitutional Case-Law, comparative studies and UniDem seminars.

E-voting handbook - Key steps in the implementation of e-enabled elections (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6948-8

€ 8 / US$ 16

This handbook is written for governments and organisations considering whether or not to conduct e-voting pilot schemes and trials or to make e-voting a feature of their electoral system. It reviews relevant issues such as building and safeguarding trust in the system, the value of open-source software and the implications of a voter verifiable audit paper trail. Concrete e-voting issues are discussed in the framework of the electoral cycle.

This handbook can be used as a stand-alone guide, but governments or organisations would benefit most by consulting it in conjunction with Recommendation Rec(2004)11 of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on legal, operational and technical standards for e-voting.

European electoral heritage – 10 years of the Code of Good Practice in electoral matters (No. 50) (2013)

ISBN 978-92-871-7653-0

€ 17 / US$ 37

This publication contains the reports presented at the seminar organised under the Albanian Chairmanship of the Committee of Ministers of the Council of Europe on the occasion of the 10th anniversary of the code. It focuses in particular on the main problems of electoral law and administration, including the composition and functioning of electoral administration, as well as the representation of women and minorities. It also refers to the importance of the code for the other Council of Europe bodies, including the European Court of Human Rights, when ensuring the right to free elections.

Definition and development of human rights and popular sovereignty in Europe (No. 49) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-7134-4

€ 23 / US$ 46

What role do the people play in defining and developing human rights?

This volume explores the very topical issue of the lack of democratic legitimisation of national and international courts and the question of whether rendering the original process of defining human rights more democratic at the national and international level would improve the degree of protection they afford.

The authors venture to raise the crucial question: When can a democratic society be considered to be mature enough so as to be trusted to provide its own definition of human rights obligations?

Supervising electoral processes (No. 48) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6741-5

€ 17 / US$ 34

The aim of this book is to study the ways of making electoral legislation effective. It addresses electoral disputes from a procedural as well as from a substantive point of view. It also demonstrates the different approaches taken in Europe. The publication also deals with the role of international judicial instances in guaranteeing the quality of the electoral process, as well as with the control of electoral campaign financing.

Blasphemy, insult and hatred - Finding answers in a democratic society (No. 47) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6678-4

€ 39 / US$ 78

This book tries to answer a series of pertinent and poignant questions arising from diversity, intercultural relations, mutual understanding and acceptance, such as whether it is still possible to criticise ideas when this may be considered hurtful to certain religious feelings; whether society is hostage to the excessive sensitivity of certain individuals; or what legal responses there may be to these phenomena, and whether criminal law is the only answer.

The cancellation of election results (No. 46) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6651-7

€ 20 / US$ 40

Electoral law, like all other fields of law, is effective only if it provides for sanctions. The cancellation of elections results, the most serious of sanctions, is in general linked to the most serious of irregularities, especially when its effects are felt beyond a small constituency. However, small technical inaccuracies may affect election results if the difference in votes is minimal, as recent examples such as the notorious 2000 United States presidential elections have shown. This book aims to determine when electoral disputes should lead to such a consequence.

The participation of minorities in public life (No. 45) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6940-2

€ 19 / US$ 38

Can national minorities' participation in decision-making processes be achieved in any constitutional context? Can developing international standards assist governments in devising national policies? What are the challenges if states are to use cultural autonomy to improve minority participation?

This publication contains the reports presented and discussed at the UniDem Seminar organised by the European Commission for Democracy through law, under the patronage of the President of the Republic of Croatia and in cooperation with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and European Integration of the Republic of Croatia, the University of Zagreb and the University of Glasgow.

Bulletin on Constitutional Case-Law

Bulletin on Constitutional Case-Law (periodical)

The Bulletin on Constitutional Case-Law includes the most significant case-law of constitutional courts and courts of equivalent jurisdiction in Greater Europe and from other continents, as well as of the European Court of Human Rights.

Its aim is to allow all those interested in the development of constitutional law – judges, lawyers, civil servants, researchers and students – to be informed of these decisions quickly. The Bulletin is thus designed as a very user-friendly tool.

Health, society, ethicsBiomedicine and human rights – The Oviedo Convention and its additional protocols (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6662-3 € 29 / US$ 58

The Convention on Human Rights and Biomedicine, known as the «Oviedo Convention», celebrated the 10th anniversary of its entry into force in 2009. Reference text for patient rights at the European level and legally binding instrument at the international level, the Oviedo Convention aims to protect the integrity, dignity and identity of all human beings and guarantees everyone, without discrimination, the respect for their rights and fundamental freedoms with regard to the application of biology and medicine. Complemented with additional protocols, it addresses new challenges in biomedicine that are brought about by technological and scientific developments: prohibition of cloning of human beings, transplantation of organs and tissues of human origin, and biomedical research and genetic testing for health purposes.

Many Europeans with disabilities are unable to participate in important areas of society, simply because policies and the built environment are not designed to meet their requirements. Moreover, with the number of elderly people rapidly increasing, European societies will have to accommodate more and more disabled citizens in the future. This book invites member states to promote full participation in community life by ensuring access to all areas of society, and to implement Universal Design as a strategy to ensure equal and democratic rights in society for all individuals, regardless of age, abilities or cultural background, including persons with disabilities.

Trends in social cohesion

Redefining and combating poverty - Human rights, democracy and common goods in today's Europe (n° 25) (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7336-2

€ 44 / US$ 88

We are at a point in history where economic inequalities are more widespread each day. The situation of extreme poverty experienced by the majority of the populations in developing countries («Third World» countries) often coincides with an absence of democracy and the violation of the most fundamental rights. But in so-called «First World» countries a non-negligible proportion of inhabitants also live in impoverished conditions (albeit mainly «relative» poverty) and are denied their rights. The European situation, which this publication aims to analyse, is painful: the entire continent is afflicted by increasing poverty and consequently by the erosion of living conditions and social conflicts.

Share social responsibility: putting theory into practice (n° 24) (2013)

ISBN 978-92-871-7344-7

€ 49 / US$ 98

These reflections on the sharing of social responsibilities as proposed by the Council of Europe pave the way for asserting concepts and forms of behaviour that, while acknowledging differences in status and authority, can nevertheless promote multiple opportunities for deliberation, joint decision making, co-operation and reciprocity between stakeholders. If we are to avoid conflict and destruction in the face of growing interdependence, it is essential to reformulate current social choices, ensuring that social, intergenerational and environmental justice lie at their very heart.

This volume, like the previous one on the same theme, calls us to take action by once again heading a key social function: taking into consideration the expectations and preferences of the different players and citizens.

Towards a Europe of shared social responsibilities: challenges and strategies (n° 23) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-7065-1

€ 49 / US$ 98

Current trends are having a significant effect on both the scope and the substance of specific responsibilities, individual or collective, voluntary or statutory. In addition, extreme interdependence exacerbates the differences between values, concepts of well-being and interests, potentially giving rise to mutually destructive conflicts, wastage of resources and externally negative consequences. Hence the Council of Europe's proposal to adopt the concept of shared social responsibility as a vital adjunct to specific responsibilities to make them more meaningful. In accordance with this concept, all parties are encouraged to practise transparency and to account for their acts in a context of knowledge and decision making shaped by dialogue and interaction.

Institutional accommodation and the citizen: legal and political interaction in a pluralist society (n° 21) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6740-8

€ 41 / US$ 82

The question of accommodations that institutions and citizens must make to ensure social cohesion in pluralist societies is of concern to the Council of Europe. How will we live and interact together in diversity? It is becoming increasingly important to provide responses and devise innovative frameworks (in the legal sphere, in national education and training in competences and in institutional practice) which can help build a shared vision while at the same time respecting each individual.

Well-being for all - Concepts and tools for social cohesion (No. 20) (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6505-3

€ 53 / US$ 106

The concepts of well-being for all and of responsibility borne by all are fundamental to the definition of social cohesion propounded by the Council of Europe and bring a new dimension to the ideas of freedom, choice and preference.

This volume tries to suggest ways in which we can develop inclusive and concerted opinions on the subject of well-being (taking into consideration common goods) as a tool for improving social cohesion

Drugs and addiction

- Reflections on the concept of coherency for a policy on psychoactive substances and beyond (2012)
ISBN 978-92-871-7345-4 € 23 / US$ 46

The issue of psychoactive substance policies (and beyond) is currently at the forefront of policy making in a number of countries, including those participating in this study, together with the issue of how such a policy may be implemented in a coherent manner. Continuing the work carried out in two previous publications, «From a policy on illegal drugs to a policy on psychoactive substances» (2008) and «Towards an integrated policy on psychoactive substances: a theoretical and empirical analysis» (2010), this work attempts to put into perspective the salient points of what may be termed a coherent policy on psychoactive substances and beyond. It proposes six indicators, around which the concept of coherency is articulated.

- Treatment systems overview (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6930-3 € 39 / US$ 78

In an effort to make knowledge available about how treatment systems for drug users are organised in different countries, and to facilitate bi- and multilateral co-operation and research, this publication presents an overview of the treatment systems of 22 of the 35 Pompidou Group member countries.

The focus of drug treatment in the 1980s and 1990s was on heroin and the introduction of substitution treatment. A shift to cater for polydrug use is now taking place across Europe. The diversity of treatment systems reflects the complexity of the local legal, political, economic and cultural context of drug problems. This source of good practices for making treatment accessible and available will be useful not only for policy makers and practitioners, but also for user groups, researchers and the wider public as well.

- Towards an integrated policy on psychoactive substances : a theoretical and empirical analysis (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6925-9 € 17 / US$ 34

This publication is a further attempt to understand the scientific basis for choosing a separate policy for each substance or a single policy incorporating all substances. It also examines how policy is implemented in seven countries selected to include the entire spectrum, the fact that substance use impinges on the quality of life of each individual and society at large, and that the issue of policy co-ordination and the determination of which structures, bodies better serve single policies or an integrated policy for all substances.

Signals from drug research (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6694-4 € 16 / US$ 32

In this publication, experts in these three areas present the results of the latest research into the problem of drug addiction. The dynamics of the cannabis market are analysed through the lens of sociology, whereas researchers in psychology look at personality traits, impulsivity and sensation seeking. In addition, the most recent theories in neuroscience and dependency are presented. Finally, this book provides information on what treatments are available, or may be available in future, for drug addiction.

Social Security

Sustaining European social security systems in a globalised economy (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7259-4 € 10 / US$ 20

In addition to long-term demographic trends, European social security systems face new challenges as a result of increased global competition and an international banking system focused on short-term financial gain. This report therefore explores new ways for European policy makers and institutions to make social security systems more sustainable. It investigates ways to achieve short and long-term financial viability. It also identifies key mechanisms that work to achieve social cohesion, such as greater emphasis on social rights and social dialogue. It then examines the main policy issues in sustaining major individual social security programmes, such as health care, social assistance and family benefits, pensions, unemployment and work incapacity benefits, as well as long-term care..

Anti-crisis measures. Safeguarding jobs and social security in Europe (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6938-9 € 12 / US$ 24

The present publication describes and analyses the measures taken or under consideration by European countries to mitigate the impact of the current financial crisis on the most vulnerable population groups and on the financing of social security systems.

In the first part, it provides facts and figures regarding the consequences of the crisis on European labour markets and on social security schemes. The second part sums up and classifies anti-crisis measures into three broad categories: social security policies, employment policies and public sector policies.

Guide to the concept of suitable employment in the context of unemployment benefit (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6669-2 € 19 / US$ 38

The involuntary nature of unemployment and the unemployed person's availability for work are basic conditions for the award of unemployment insurance benefits. This is why the unemployed are obliged to accept offers of suitable employment and face penalties if they fail to comply with this requirement.

What criteria must employment meet in order to be considered suitable? What kind of employment can workers be required to accept on pain of losing their entitlement to unemployment benefit? Information collected from 31 Council of Europe member states in reply to these questions is set out in table form in this guide.

This publication also lays down guidelines to help member states to formulate or revise their policies concerning cases in which job seekers may refuse an offer of employment without incurring penalties.

Social security - Protection at the international level and developments in Europe (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6579-4 € 29 / US$ 58

Is social security considered as a human right and how has the case law of the European Court of Human Rights developed in this area? These are some of the key issues addressed in this publication, where the European Code of Social Security and its protocol are viewed against the background of other standard-setting instruments, developments at national level and human rights.

Social co-operation in Europe

Fostering social mobility as a contribution to social cohesion (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7342-3 € 29 / US$ 58

Social mobility is linked to social cohesion in a number of complex ways. In essence it concerns social fairness and is a measure of how equal economic opportunities or life chances are, and how a society transforms principles of equal opportunity into reality.

Intergenerational mobility of income or socio-economic status demonstrates the real extent to which equality exists in a society. A more cohesive society is one where people are not divided on socio-economic or other grounds, citizens accept that the division of rewards is fair and everyone has equal starting points in life.

This study examines the factors influencing social mobility and policies which might be put in place to facilitate it.

Constructing an inclusive institutional culture - Intercultural competences in cultural services (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-7143-6

€ 19 / US$ 38

While it is essential for migrants to learn the language of their host country, understanding the codes of conduct, standards, allegiances, rules and exceptions is perhaps an even greater challenge.

This clearer understanding of the institutional fabric is an inevitable part of what is termed "integration" and also applies to minorities.

Since this process does not occur unassisted, this guide puts forward a number of proposals to help acquire the institutional skills. These are all aspects inherent in interaction processes and essential for respecting diversity.

This guide is an indispensable tool for public and private operators, social workers, mediators and all other stakeholders aware of the need to incorporate these aspects into their exchanges.

Involving citizens and communities in securing societal progress for the well-being of all - Methodological guide (Book + CD Rom) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6888-7

€ 39 / US$ 78

Over the last 60 years, the idea that the creation of material wealth is essential for ensuring the well-being and fundamental rights of citizens has been broadly predominant. In this organisational model there is an implicit link between growth, individual well-being and collective well-being. This view of constant improvement presupposes a commitment by states and businesses to the fair distribution of the benefits of growth. Accordingly, states - as guarantors of the collective well-being - have focused their efforts on improving gross domestic product (GDP).

At a time when confidence has suffered significantly and when the old benchmarks are being challenged, this guide, following on from the Methodological guide entitled Concerted development of social cohesion indicators (2005), addresses the concept of societal progress for the well-being of all by involving citizens and human communities in defining what this means and how it can be brought about. It explains how we can move from the idea of well-being pure and simple to well-being for all, and describes the interactions between personal and collective well-being.

This guide seeks to foster an approach to progress in order to make it more easily manageable and give it a more human face.

Migrants and their descendants - Guide to policies for the well-being of all in pluralist societies (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6853-5

€ 53 / US$ 106

Migration to and within Europe has profoundly changed the life and image of the continent. This guide offers theoretical and practical tools for an innovative approach to a key political issue

By moving beyond rigid categories like «foreigner», «immigrant» and «illegal», and ambiguous concepts like «identity», «diversity», «immigration control» and «integration», this guide suggests that policy makers, civil servants and citizens need to question their own vocabulary if they are to grasp the complexity and uniqueness or people's migration paths.

Perceiving migrants simply from the host country's point of view - the security, well-being and life-style of its nationals - has limitations. We cannot see people of foreign origin only as a threat or a resource to be exploited. This guide helps readers decode and address the structural problems of our society, looking at the accusations made against migrants and the utilitarian view or the advantages that immigrants bring to host societies.

In publishing this guide, the Council of Europe is seeking to initiate an in-depth debate on the migration issue, which is so high on the European political agenda.

Strengthening social cohesion - Improving the situation of low-income workers. Empowerment of people experiencing extreme poverty (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6842-9

€ 25 / US$ 50

Poverty has become a challenge for European societies. Employment is often considered to be a key route out of poverty, whereas unemployment is seen as a major cause of poverty and social exclusion. Employment does not prevent poverty among the working population, however, and low-income employment has become an important policy issue in Europe.

Empowerment of those experiencing extreme poverty in their daily life is one strategy to combat this phenomenon. Empowerment provides individuals living in poverty with the tools which enhance their ability to deal with the situation.

This publication is designed to assist policy makers and service providers at national and local levels to develop effective strategies to improve the situation of low-income workers and to empower people experiencing extreme poverty in Europe.

Rethinking consumer behaviour for the well-being of all - Reflections on individual consumer responsibility (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6482-7

€ 28 / US$ 56

An eclectic mix of academic articles, examples and illustrations makes this guide an unusual, informative work which can be readily used as the basis for discussions on this pressing social issue: surely consumption should be a responsible, socially committed act.

This book, inspired by a contribution from the European Inter-Network of Ethical and Solidarity-Based Initiatives (IRIS), is intended as a "prototype": readers are free to adapt its contents to their own circumstances, to add relevant examples and to bring the ideas presented to life.

Biodiversity and climate change: Reports and guidance developed under the Bern Convention - Volume II (N° 160) (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7059-0

€ 49 / US$ 98

The effects of climate change on ecosystems are complex. The impact on the species and habitats protected by the Bern Convention may differ widely, depending on the species, their habitats and location. This publication includes seven expert reports presenting concrete measures for addressing the vulnerability of Europe's natural heritage in the face of climate change and its effects, and how this heritage must adapt in order to survive.

With this publication, the Council of Europe aims to increase awareness about the links between biodiversity and climate, and emphasise the large potential for synergies when addressing biodiversity loss and climate change in an integrated manner.

This publication presents concrete measures for addressing the vulnerability of Europe's natural heritage in the face of climate change and its effects, and how this heritage must adapt in order to survive. It also reproduces the full text of Recommendation 135 (2008) on addressing the impacts of climate change on biodiversity, adopted by the Standing Committee of the Bern Convention in November 2008, which stresses the urgent need to tackle the impact of climate change on biological diversity and on its conservation. With this publication, the Council of Europe aims to increase awareness about the links between biodiversity and climate, and emphasise the large potential for synergies when addressing biodiversity loss and climate change in an integrated manner.

Landscape facets. Reflections and proposals for the implementation of the European Landscape Convention (2012)
ISBN 978-92-871-7080-4 € 35 / US$ 70

The European Landscape Convention was adopted under the auspices of the Council of Europe with the aim of promoting the protection, management and planning of European landscape and organising European co-operation in this area. It is the first international treaty covering all aspects of landscape. It applies to the entire territory of the contracting parties and covers natural, rural, urban and peri-urban areas. It concerns landscapes that might be considered outstanding, commonplace or deteriorated. The convention represents an important contribution to achieving the Council of Europe's objectives, namely to promote democracy, human rights and the rule of law, as well as to seek common solutions to the main problems facing European society. By taking into account landscape, culture and nature, the Council of Europe seeks to protect the quality of life and well-being of Europeans in a sustainable development perspective.

Economic migration, social cohesion and development: towards an integrated approach (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6572-5 € 29 / US$ 58

Migration is a central theme in contemporary European policy because it is intrinsically connected with the most formidable challenges facing Europe: development, economic growth and productivity, demographic change, maintaining social security systems, ensuring social cohesion and intercultural dialogue, and upholding human rights and the rule of law.

This report presents the main aspects and characteristics of migration in the member states of the Council of Europe, analyses policy challenges raised by contemporary migration and identifies an integrated policy agenda.

Policies on irregular migrants - Volume II - Republic of Armenia, Greece, Russian Federation (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6401-8 € 15 / US$ 30

After volume I, which contains a summary of the project and the national reports of Italy and Germany, volume II looks at the situation of irregular migrants in Armenia, Greece and the Russian Federation.

Policies on irregular migrants - Volume I - Italy and Germany (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6397-4 € 15 / US$ 30

The insecurity which irregular migrants face on a daily basis because of the unlawfulness of their residence prompted the European Committee on Migration (CDMG) to assess their situation in Council of Europe member states. The aim of the exercise was to pool and evaluate national experience and to draw up proposals on dealing with irregular migrants and improving co-operation between countries of origin and host countries.

The Euro-Mediterranean migration system (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6399-8 € 15 / US$ 30

The Euro-Mediterranean region can be seen as the focal point for movements between south and north. Starting with this observation, the author addresses the migration problems of the countries on the northern shore of the Mediterranean and the immigration countries of the European Union, which recruit labour from the southern shore. He also deals with the new immigration countries on the northern shore, as well as the emigration and transit countries of the southern and eastern shores.

50 years of local and regional democracy in Europe (1957-2007) (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6385-1

€ 10 / US$ 15

In 2007, the Congress of Local and Regional Authorities of the Council of Europe, the representative and the voice of local and regional authorities throughout the continent, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its creation. Originally conceived to make the voice of local authorities count in the incipient European unification, with the passing years it was able to transcend this strict role in order to help to reshape the continent in its own way, particularly by promoting regional policies.

This study follows the growth of the Congress and presents the many initiatives it has taken to help the towns and regions of Europe to develop harmoniously, whether at the political, economic, social, cultural, or environmental level. It has been behind numerous European conventions, today recognised all over the continent, and tirelessly contributes to the consolidation of local and regional democracy in Europe.

Gods in the city - Intercultural and inter-religious dialogue at local level (2008)

ISBN 978-92-871-6384-4

€ 25 / US$ 38

Clearly, «God is changing in Europe»: religious faiths and beliefs are increasingly making their presence felt in the public arena, at all levels. Because religions are more and more often behind the forging and assertion of multiple identities, the authorities have a duty to take the utmost account of them when establishing democratic rules and arrangements for «living together». Local authorities are ideally placed to lead this work, which requires creativity, imagination, a willingness to engage in dialogue and the opening of meeting places.

Such an approach needs to go hand-in-hand with an analysis of this new state of affairs. It also calls for the sharing of experience. It is for this reason that the Congress of Local and Regional Authorities of the Council of Europe has chosen this avenue and launched a debate, in which local political figures and university researchers have been closely involved. The fact that it is sizing up the issues thrown up by intercultural and interfaith dialogue and opting for an approach based on mutual knowledge means that it has chosen from the outset to break new ground. This is the key objective of this European contribution to democratic debate and to action by the authorities in the context of religious pluralism.

Human Rights education / Intercultural education

Compass - Manual for Human Rights Education with Young People (2012 edition - fully revised and updated) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-7320-1

€ 28 / US$ 59

Human rights cannot be defended by legal measures alone. They need to be protected and safeguarded by everyone, including young people. Human rights are best respected and appreciated when we know them, stand up for them and apply them in our lives.

COMPASS provides youth leaders, teachers and facilitators of human rights education activities, whether professional or volunteers, with concrete ideas and practical activities to engage, involve and motivate young people in living, learning and acting for human rights. It promotes a comprehensive perspective on human rights education and sees young people as actors for a culture of universal human rights.

This fully revised and updated edition includes new activities and information about human rights issues such as disability and disablism, migration, religion, remembrance, war and terrorism.

«Communication and Relationships» and «Management and Teaching», encourage future teachers to reflect on and identify their own personal positions, in various environments, in order to develop a clearer sense of their ethnic and cultural identities and to examine their attitudes vis-à-vis different groups of students.

EDC/HRE Volume IV: Taking part in democracy - Lesson plans for upper secondary level on democratic citizenship and human rights education (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6833-7

€ 19 / US$ 38

This is a manual for teachers in Education for Democratic Citizenship (EDC) and Human Rights Education (HRE), EDC/HRE textbook editors and curriculum developers. Nine teaching units of approximately four lessons each focus on key concepts of EDC/HRE. The lesson plans give step-by-step instructions and include student handouts and background information for teachers. The complete manual provides a full school year's curriculum for students in upper secondary school (grades 10 to 12), but as each unit is also complete in itself, the manual allows great flexibility of use.

Strategic support for decision makers - Policy tool for education for democratic citizenship and human rights (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6896-2

€ 15 / US$ 30

This policy tool explains what citizenship and human rights education are about and what they mean in terms of policy making in a lifelong learning perspective, namely, in the different phases of education and training - whether formal, informal or non-formal - from general education to vocational training and higher education to adult education. It sets out a policy cycle involving policy design and implementation, as well as policy review and sustainability.

This tool aims to provide support to key decision makers in member states - ministers, parliamentarians and government officials. It can, however, be used by anyone involved in designing, implementing and reviewing relevant policies, whether in government and international organisations, education and training institutions, non-governmental organisations and youth organisations.

Policies and practices for teaching sociocultural diversity - Diversity and inclusion: challenges for teacher education (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6852-8

€ 19 / US$ 38

This fourth and final volume of the series of publications from the Council of Europe project Policies and Practices for Teaching Sociocultural Diversity (2006-09) includes case studies presented at the final conference held in Oslo (Norway) from 26 to 28 October 2009.

These concrete examples illustrate the conditions of implementation and adaptation to national contexts of the «Framework of teacher competences for engaging with diversity», which is one of the final products of the project. The competences, which break down into three main groups, namely «Knowledge and Understanding»,

School-community-university partnerships for a sustainable democracy: Education for democratic citizenship in Europe and the United States of America (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6795-8

€ 12 / US$ 24

This guide examines how schools and universities can work together with their local communities to promote democracy in society based on the principles of Education for Democratic Citizenship (EDC), a concept developed by the Council of Europe. Partnerships based on this idea foster civic skills and values in citizens and build the civic capacity of communities through the pursuit of collective solutions to local problems. The guide explores the mechanics of such partnerships in practice, describing how they are built and sustained, and what makes them work.

Drawing on examples from Europe and the United States of America, the guide is intended for policy makers and practitioners in schools and universities, civil society and community groups, and representatives of public authorities and government bodies on both sides of the Atlantic.

Living in Diversity - Lesson Plans for Secondary Schools (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6754-5

€ 13 / US$ 26

This handbook was produced in the framework of the pilot project "Intercultural and interfaith dialogue through education" part of the Council of Europe-European Commission joint programme "Fostering a culture of human rights in South Caucasus and Ukraine" (2006-2009).

The content of this handbook is based on the proposals for educational activities that were developed by the teachers and trainers from Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia and Ukraine who took part in the project. The activities presented here cover a range of topics associated with intercultural education that correspond to some of the key elements and competences that the Council of Europe considers to be fundamental for intercultural education.

The handbook should be seen as a tool for teachers of different subjects who want to integrate an intercultural dimension in their practice. It can also act as a useful resource for teacher trainers in this field.

EDC/HRE Volume II: Growing up in democracy - Lesson plans for primary level on democratic citizenship and human rights (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6728-6 € 29 / US$ 58

Growing up in democracy is addressed to teachers who want to integrate Education for Democratic Citizenship (EDC) and Human Rights Education (HRE) in their daily subject teaching. Nine teaching units of approximately four lesson plans each give step-by-step instructions and include student handouts and background information for teachers. The complete manual provides a full school year's curriculum for students in primary school (grades 4 to 6), but as each unit is also complete in itself the manual allows great flexibility in use. It is therefore also suitable for textbook editors, curriculum developers, teacher trainers, student teachers and beginning teachers.

The objective of EDC/HRE is to teach children to become active citizens who are willing and able to participate in the democratic community. Therefore, EDC/HRE strongly emphasise action and task-based learning. The school community is conceived as a sphere of authentic experience where young people can learn how to participate in democratic decision making and may take responsibility at an early age. Key concepts for EDC/HRE are taught as tools of life-long learning.

Policies and practices for teaching sociocultural diversity - A framework of teacher competences for engaging with diversity (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6582-4 € 38 / US$ 76

Future teachers require specific training on democratic culture and social cohesion. By focusing on reflective thinking, training can enable them to situate themselves in diverse environments, develop a clearer sense of their ethnic and cultural identities and examine attitudes to different groups. This book is designed to provide a basis to help ensure that the needs of future teachers in this regard are met.

Policies and practices for teaching sociocultural diversity - Concepts, principles and challenges in teacher education (2009)
ISBN 978-92-871-6555-8 € 10 / US$ 20

This work offers an outline of the main principles underpinning work in the diversity area. It also introduces some key concepts related to sociocultural diversity in education while analysing some challenges in teacher education and development. It identifies policy measures and guidelines for teachers' pre-service training institutions.

How all teachers can support citizenship and human rights education: a framework for the development of competences (2009)
ISBN 978-92-871-6555-8 € 10 / US$ 20

This publication sets out the core competences needed by teachers to put democratic citizenship and human rights into practice in the classroom, throughout the school and in the wider community. It is intended for all teachers - not only specialists but teachers in all subject areas - and teacher educators working in higher-education institutions or other settings, both in pre- and in-service training.

European pack for visiting Auschwitz-Birkenau Memorial and Museum - Guidelines for teachers and educators (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6794-1 € 25 / US$ 50

Taking groups of students to the Auschwitz-Birkenau Memorial and Museum is a heavy responsibility, but it is a major contribution to citizenship if it fosters understanding of what Auschwitz stands for, particularly when the last survivors are at the end of their lives. It comes with certain risks, however.

This pack is designed for teachers wishing to organise student visits to authentic places of remembrance, and for the guides, academics and others who work every day with young people at Auschwitz.

The young people who visit Auschwitz in the next few years will be witnesses of the last witnesses, links in the chain of memory. Their generation will be the last to hear the survivors speaking on the spot.

Crossroads of European Histories - Multiple Outlooks on Five Key Moments in the History of Europe (CD + Book) (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6611-1 € 50 / US$ 100

This book allows teachers to present numerous examples of various approaches in their practical teaching as well as different points of view or ideas on the same events in recent European history. Both teachers and pupils can then place regional and national history in a wider context, develop their historical knowledge, make connections across space and time, and compare different perspectives on the same events and developments.

Education for democratic citizenship

Handbook on values for life in a democracy (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6554-1 € 23 / US$ 46

The Council of Europe project "Cultural identities, shared values and citizenship"(2006-2008) was launched after the Organisation's 3rd Summit (Warsaw, 2005). It was based on the premise that an awareness and appreciation of Europe's rich diversity of cultures and heritages and how they have interacted with each other over time are essential preconditions for mutual respect, peaceful coexistence, intercultural dialogue, a shared attachment to common values and an emerging European cultural citizenship.

This handbook is structured around a series of key questions to promote discussion among young people about universal human rights and the implementation of core European values. It encourages the reader to apply these values to a variety of issues.

Higher education and research

Reimagining democratic societies: a new era of personal and social responsibility (No. 18) (2013)

ISBN 978-92-871-7537-3 € 44 / US$ 88

Reimagining democratic societies, although a demanding task, is one in which higher education must engage. As societies change, our understanding of democracy must also evolve. We need democratic institutions, but also democratic culture and democratic innovation. Citizen participation, as a cornerstone of democracy, must go beyond citizen mobilisation on just a few issues. An educated, committed citizenry deeply involved in creating and sustaining diverse democratic societies is essential for human progress and advancing the quality of life for all.

Not by bread alone (No. 17) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6971-6 € 30 / US$ 60

Not by bread alone gathers essays on higher education, including some written especially for this book. They cover three key areas: the missions of higher education, public responsibility and qualifications. Together, these essays spell out a view of higher education as a key factor in developing modern societies built on the fundamental Council of Europe values of democracy, human rights and the rule of law. They also underline the key role of higher education in developing the ability of our societies to conduct intercultural dialogue.

To fulfil its role, higher education needs to prepare for citizenship as well as for employment, for personal development as well as for the development of a broad knowledge base.

Speaking across borders: the role of higher education in furthering intercultural dialogue (No. 16) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6941-9 € 29 / US$ 58

This book, edited jointly by the Council of Europe and the International Association of Universities (IAU), explores the role of higher education in developing intercultural dialogue in society at large. The book sets out the political context for intercultural dialogue and explores how universities can move from dialogue on campus to dialogue in society, and hence to become actors of intercultural dialogue. It also offers examples of good practice from various parts of the world.

Higher education for modern societies: competences and values (No. 15) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6777-4 € 29 / US$ 58

Developing learners' competence is an important part of the mission of higher education. This book explores the roles and purposes of higher education in modern, complex societies and the importance of competences in this respect. Although public debate in Europe could give the impression that the sole purpose of higher education is to prepare for the labour market, this important role is complemented by at least three others: preparation for democratic citizenship, personal development and the development of a broad and advanced knowledge base.

Learning and living democracy – Advancing democratic practice. A self-assessment guide for higher education (No. 14) (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6663-0 € 25 / US$ 50

This book examines how deans, rectors and university staff can operate on a day-to-day basis, describes how the journey down the road towards democratic practice tends to take shape and helps readers to estimate how far their establishment has come along this road. This guide offers practical advice on starting, continuing and evaluating the journey.

Intercultural competence for all - Preparation for living in a heterogeneous world (No. 2) (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7356-0

€ 39 / US$ 78

Education which helps citizens live together in our diverse societies is a matter of urgency. We all need to develop the ability to understand each other across all types of cultural barriers; this is a fundamental prerequisite for making our diverse democratic societies work.

This publication looks at the development of intercultural competence as a key element of mainstream education. It stresses the need firstly for an appropriate education policy which puts intercultural competence at the heart of all education and, above all, for the development, on an everyday basis, of the necessary attitudes, skills and knowledge needed for mutual understanding. Without these, no sustainable societal change is possible.

Without these, no sustainable societal change is possible.

Teacher education for change - The theory behind the Council of Europe Pestalozzi Programme (No. 1) (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-7020-0

€ 39 / US$ 78

What is the main role for teachers today? Why is the Council of Europe dealing with education, and teacher education in particular? How is educational thinking guided by visions of a future society desirable for all?

How, in the midst of a fierce battle for curriculum time, can education for human rights, democracy and mutual understanding be embedded in the existing curricula?

What are the values underlying our educational visions?

The aim of this publication is to offer a few answers to these and many other questions. Above all, its purpose is to contribute to the ongoing debate, more necessary than ever, on the role of teachers and teacher education in the broader context of teaching and learning for a sustainable democratic society.

Regional and minority languages

- Minority language protection in Europe: into a new decade (No. 8) (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6727-9 € 25 / US$ 50

This work looks at the future prospects of the European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages in the light of the experience gained over the first decade of the charter's existence. It is evident that governments bear the primary responsibility in preparing for ratification and in applying the charter, and this is illustrated by case studies for some states parties to the charter. However, regional and local authorities also play a very important role in relation to the charter as they are confronted on a daily basis with the use and protection of minority languages.

- European Charter for Regional or Minority Languages – Collected texts (No. 7) (2010)
ISBN 978-92-871-6671-5 € 27 / US$ 54

This document aims at providing a user-friendly compilation of basic texts on how the charter operates and how its monitoring mechanism works. This compilation is therefore addressed not only to government experts and central, local and regional authorities of the states parties to the charter, but also to representatives of regional or minority language speakers, non-governmental organisations, students, researchers and anyone else interested in the protection and promotion of minority languages.

Cultural development

The intercultural city step by step - Practical guide for applying the urban model of intercultural integration (2013)

ISBN 978-92-871-7631-8

€ 28 / US$ 56

This guide is designed for city leaders and practitioners wishing to learn from the Intercultural Cities pilot project run by the Council of Europe and the European Commission in developing an intercultural approach to diversity management and integration. This approach has been built on the basis of experience in dozens of real-life cities in redesigning their policies and reshaping their governance to ensure equal opportunities and realise a diversity advantage.

The guide recommends steps and measures to help develop an intercultural strategy and monitor its implementation. It illustrates the elements of such a strategy with analytical questions, suggestions and examples of practice in various European cities.

It illustrates the elements of such a strategy with analytical questions, suggestions and examples of practice in various European cities.

Intercultural cities – Towards a model for intercultural integration (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6732-3

€ 25 / US$ 50

This volume explains what intercultural integration means in practice: how it affects policies, governance and citizenship, public discourse, media relations, public services and the urban environment. It reviews the processes that facilitate the development of intercultural strategies and presents a wide range of examples, including the intercultural profiles of 11 cities across Europe.

Making culture accessible - Access, participation and cultural provision in the context of cultural rights in Europe (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6729-3

€ 19 / US$ 38

This study is a general overview of existing legal and policy frameworks in Europe, covering access to and participation in cultural life, cultural provision and cultural rights. It aims at facilitating an environment that enables the development of access and participation in this area. The study also pays due tribute to local civil society organisations and cultural associations, in recognition of the important role they play in making access to culture possible.

Culinary Cultures of Europe - Identity, Diversity and Dialogue (2005)

ISBN 978-92-871-5744-7

€ 49 / US$ 75

There is nothing trivial about food: the study of culinary culture and its history provides an insight into broad social, political and economic changes in society. The present collection of essays reflects many of the important transitions through which 40 European countries have passed, and in this sense, it is a history book. It is also a colourful celebration of an enormously rich part of our cultural heritage.

This book offers an excellent insight into the meaning of food culture and will be of interest to anyone who wishes to explore the diversity of our European cultural heritage.

Cultural heritage

Guidance on the development of legislation and administration systems in the field of cultural heritage (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6922-8

€ 12 / US$ 24

What laws should states enact to protect and promote their cultural heritage, and what administrative systems can they put in place to manage their cultural heritage policies most effectively? This revised and expanded guidance document aims to provide authoritative information on good practice in three primary areas:

- the architectural heritage;
- the archaeological heritage; and
- the movable heritage.

Consideration is given to integrated approaches to conservation, in particular those which take into account the global concept of sustainable development and the need for community involvement in formulating legal and institutional mechanisms.

This publication is part of a series launched in 2000 on topics of general interest, based on experience acquired through pilot projects in different countries, and made available to all those involved in heritage in the member states of the Council of Europe.

Heritage and beyond (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6636-4

€ 23 / US$ 46

The notion of cultural heritage may be viewed from a number of standpoints. This publication is concerned with the meaning of heritage and the contribution it can make to the progress of European society and includes a range of articles that look at heritage in the context of the current challenges we all face. In particular, it shows how the Council of Europe Framework Convention on the Value of Cultural Heritage for Society (Faro Convention) can enhance and offer a fresh approach to the value of the cultural heritage for our society.

This publication looks in depth at various themes introduced by the Faro Convention, such as the «holistic definition» of heritage, the concept of «heritage communities» and of a «common European heritage», its different economic and social dimensions and the principle of shared responsibility. It also offers valuable insights into the relationships between the heritage, the knowledge society and the process of digitising cultural assets.

Guidance on inventory and documentation of the cultural heritage
(2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6557-2 € 15 / US$ 30

Through its work in the 1960s, the Council of Europe helped to lay the methodological bases for inventorying architectural, archaeological and movable heritage. The efforts to systematise the process came in answer to the broadening meaning of heritage, and today new considerations lead us to address such notions as heritage groups. The guidelines proposed in this book reflect the work done so far and provide a basis for future research.

IRIS plus 2013-1 - Digital Switchover (2013)

ISBN 978-92-871-7642-4 € 25,50 / US$ 25,50

Within the EU the introduction of digital television and its regulation is quite advanced. The big majority of EU member states has completed the digitisation process by the beginning of 2013.

But how is the switchover to digital television progressing in other parts of Europe? This IRIS plus on the situation in Russia and the ten other countries of the Commonwealth of Independent States as well as ten selected States of South-East Europe shows how painfully slow the journey from tried and trusted analogue TV to the pleasure of digital viewing can be.

IRIS plus 2012-6 - Protection of minors and audiovisual content on-demand (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7550-2 € 24,50 / US$ 24,50

The use of audiovisual content services on-demand is catching up with traditional media at a dizzying speed. The growing popularity of on-demand services is based on extremely widespread use by young people, which raises the question of protection of minors from some of this on-demand media content. The protection of minors is a shared responsibility between the legislature and parents, but parents sometimes feel overwhelmed by this responsibility. This only serves to strengthen the role of the legislator when it comes to the protection of children.

IRIS plus 2012-5 - Must-Carry: Renaissance or Reformation? (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7550-2 € 24,50 / US$ 24,50

Must-carry rules date back to the time when space on analogue broadcasting networks was limited and when supply grew due to the introduction of private broadcasters. The major reason for the adoption of these must-carry rules was to guarantee access to public service broadcasting and ensure a diverse choice of programmes.

The history of youth work in Europe - Volume 3 - Relevance for today's youth work policy (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7244-0 € 29 / US$ 58

Following on from the first two volumes of History of youth work in Europe, each of which was based on international seminars, the Belgian Presidency of the European Union held an international and interdisciplinary conference on the history of youth work. This third volume presents the work of this conference, which widened the scope of study from national histories to questions concerning the historical evolution of youth work methods, theories and targets. This publication is intended to build bridges between past and future, east and west, north and south - and to inform contemporary debate on youth work and youth policy in Europe.

Intercultural learning in non-formal education: theoretical frameworks and starting points (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-6822-1 € 12 / US$ 24

Intercultural learning has long held a central role in European youth work and policy, especially in international youth exchanges.

This essay by Susana Lafraya is a contribution to enlarging the circle of communication on intercultural learning experience through youth work. The connections that she makes between non-formal learning, youth work and intercultural theory sum up much of what has been said in the youth work field in the past years. It is translated and published here with the intention of adding one more stone to the edifice of intercultural learning and non-formal education.

1989 - Young people and social change after the fall of the Berlin Wall (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7183-2 € 44 / US$ 88

After the collapse of state socialism at the end of the 1980s, young people in Eastern Europe began to play a dramatically different role in society. Once cast as the vital, reinvigorating protagonists of the communist ideal, they emerged as promoters of democratisation and agents of a now hegemonic market system. Twenty years after the fall of the Berlin Wall in November 1989, an event symbolising both the lifting of the Iron Curtain and the end of the Cold War, an international seminar was held in Budapest to discuss how the opening of eastern European societies to western Europe and the world had changed the living conditions and experiences of young people growing up in the region.

The history of youth work in Europe - Volume 2. Relevance for today's youth work policy (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6824-5 € 29 / US$ 58

This second volume of The history of youth work in Europe, presents the youth work histories of some very different countries: Belgium and its three communities, the Netherlands, Ireland, Wales and Hungary. The reader is also introduced to the history of the relatively young European youth policies, and is even given a glimpse beyond European borders with a history of youth work in South Africa.

Some still more equal than others? Or equal opportunities for all? (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-6657-9 € 36 / US$ 72

Research shows that inequality - in opportunities, wealth or health, for example - is widespread in Europe and that the citizens of richer countries do not necessarily have healthier profiles than those of poorer countries. The citizens of egalitarian countries, on the other hand, have the highest life expectancy.

This book examines many aspects of inequality and opportunity for young people including schooling, employment, social exclusion, labour migration, trafficking, disability, cultural and religious discrimination, youth work, and opposition and resistance.

Youth employment and the future of work (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6657-9 € 49 / US$ 98

What emerges in this publication is a shared commitment to finding flexible responses to economic globalisation and a concomitant concern for promoting the rights, interests and welfare of young people in both training placement and in the workplace.

The history of youth work in Europe - Relevance for today's youth work policy (2009)

ISBN 978-92-871-6608-1 € 29 / US$ 58

This book proposes a historical perspective that aims to identify the close links between youth work developments and broader social, cultural and political developments. Tracing back the roots of youth work and identifying different evolutions within and between countries help to initiate a fundamental discussion on modern-day youth work identity and to cope in a constructive way with the recurrent paradoxes of youth work.

'Composito' is a starting point for educators, teachers and trainers who are ready to deal with human rights education with children of 7-13 years.

The 42 practical activities serve to engage and motivate children to recognise human rights issues in their own environment. They help children to develop critical thinking, responsibility and a sense of justice, and help them learn how to take action to contribute to the betterment of their school or community. The manual also gives practical tips on how it can be used in various formal and non-formal educational settings.

Ethics and sport in Europe (2011)

ISBN 978-92-871-7077-4

€ 28 / US$ 56

The major role of the Council of Europe and the Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport (EPAS) in addressing the new challenges to sports ethics was confirmed by the 11th Council of Europe Conference of Ministers responsible for Sport, held in Athens on 11 and 12 December 2008. A political impetus was given on 16 June 2010 by the Committee of Ministers, with the adoption of an updated version of the Code of Sports Ethics (Recommendation CM/Rec(2010)9), emphasising the requisite co-ordination between governments and sports organisations.

The EPAS prepared the ministerial conference and stepped up its work in an international conference organised with the University of Rennes, which was attended by political leaders, athletes, researchers and officials from the voluntary sector. The key experiences described in the conference and the thoughts that it prompted are described in this publication. All the writers share the concern that the end result should be practical action - particularly in terms of the setting of standards - that falls within the remit of the EPAS and promotes the Council of Europe's core values.

Sport and discrimination in Europe (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6722-4

€ 30 / US$ 60

This work presents the main contributions and considerations of young European research workers and journalists on the question of discrimination in sport. Taking a multidisciplinary approach to the social sciences, the authors show how the media and those working in media can act as a relay, through their coverage of sports, for initiatives on the fight against discrimination. They also illustrate in detail not only the reality of discrimination in sport and the controversy surrounding this issue in the member states of the Council of Europe, but also the strength of research incipient in this field.

The Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport (EPAS) hopes to contribute in this way to the development of European research on education through sport involving researchers from different countries in order to better understand the phenomenon of discrimination.

Foreword: interview with Lilian Thuram.

Autonomy of sport in Europe (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6720-0

€ 22 / US$ 44

Given the impact that successive court rulings have had on the organisation of the sports movement in the past 15 years, the autonomy and governance of non-governmental sports organisations have become a highly topical concern in Europe.

The Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport (EPAS) decided to explore the concept of autonomy in greater depth by studying the conceptual, political, legal, economic and psycho-sociological aspects of the subject. This study is based on a questionnaire sent to public authorities in charge of sport and to national and international umbrella sports organisations.

In addition to an analysis of the data obtained, documents produced by public authorities and sports organisations on this emerging issue are presented. This study contributes to a better understanding of the concept of autonomy and offers a clear picture of the issues involved.

Sport facing the test of cultural diversity (2010)

ISBN 978-92-871-6718-7

€ 16 / US$ 32

Democratic management of cultural diversity has become a priority for the Council of Europe member states. Sport is no exception to this concern. Faced with the diversity of both participants and spectators, sport becomes a vehicle for intercultural dialogue through its educational and socialising role.

This work lays out exchanges of experience in intercultural dialogue through sport. It helps put into perspective the concepts of «intercultural dialogue» and «integration» as applied to sport and evoked in social and political debates in Europe. The Enlarged Partial Agreement on Sport (EPAS) contributes to the development of European research on education through sport involving researchers from different countries.

Sport and violence in Europe (2005)

ISBN 978-92-871-5511-5

€ 19 / US$ 29

Hooliganism, violent behavior in stadiums, a notable increase in racist and xenophobic attitudes, doping, corruption, cheating, wheeling-and-dealing: has sport lost its fun side and become a serious social activity? Can it escape the influence of big business and political interference?

Does its prominence in the media give rise to violent expression? Young people who no longer recognise social values have turned sport into a means of expressing the distress and problems they are facing in their own lives.

Does the often dubious relationship between sport, business and politics, and the glorification of performance as a universal model lead to an economic and mental form of violence?

Good governance in sport – A European survey (2004)

ISBN 978-92-871-5506-1

€ 12 / US$ 18

This study outlines the many challenges related to the rapid evolution of sport and gives an overview of the legislation and regulations used by public and private sports authorities in twenty European countries. The reader will also find an evaluation of the latest regulations adopted by governmental and non-governmental organisations and several examples of current good practice in sport.

Democracy on the Precipice - Council of Europe Democracy Debates 2011-12 (2012)

ISBN 978-92-871-7463-5

€ 17 / US$ 34

As Europe's guardian of democracy, human rights and the rule of law, the Council of Europe is committed to exploring the state and practice of European democracy, as well as identifying new challenges and anticipating future trends. In order to facilitate this reflection, the Council of Europe held a series of Democracy Debates with the participation of renowned specialists working in a variety of backgrounds and disciplines.

This publication presents the eight Democracy Debate lectures. Each presentation analyses a specific aspect of democracy today, placing the issues not only in their political context but also addressing the historical, technological and communication dimensions.

The authors make proposals on ways to improve democratic governance and offer their predictions on how democracy in Europe may evolve. Together, the presentations contribute to improving our understanding of democracy today and to recognising the ways it could be protected and strengthened.

An Assembly for Europe - The Council of Europe's Parliamentary Assembly 1949-1989 (2007)

ISBN 978-92-871-6029-4

€ 28 / US$ 42

The story of the Council of Europe can be divided in two main periods, before and after the fall of the Berlin Wall. The first - which is the subject of this book - saw the Council's membership grow from 10 to 23, taking in nearly all the democracies in western Europe by the time Finland joined on 5 May 1989.

Throughout that period, the Assembly played a unique role in shaping the new Europe and giving it a voice. It was also the ever-watchful guardian of the Council's principles, playing a major part in producing its numerous conventions, and securing the abolition of the death penalty. It never forgot the founders' dream of bringing all the countries of Europe together within the Organisation.

The year 1989 was certainly a watershed. After having invited Pope John Paul II, who addressed it in October 1988, the Assembly anticipated the massive political upheavals in the East by creating the «special guest status» and conferring it at once on the parliaments of Hungary, Poland, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. The representatives of these countries were in the Chamber on 6 July 1989, when Mikhail Gorbachev expounded his vision of the «common European home», an idea which connected with Winston Churchill's celebrated Zurich speech of 19 September 1946.
